Thanks for Downloading Upheaval.

-Upheaval TT   [.ttf]
-Upheaval [14pt] [.fon]

  'Upheaval.fon' is a Windows Bitmap Font (.fon). This font is best used at 14pt. To use it at larger point sizes (for images), try using a graphics program like Photoshop, Paint Shop Pro, or the Paint program that comes with Windows. Type out your text at the recommended point size [14pt], then resize the image.   Set the color mode to 256 or 2 colors so the edges don't get blurred when resizing, then after you have the text to the size that you want, then change back to a higher color mode and edit the image.

  For programs that don't show Bitmap Fonts in the Font Selector, you may be able to get the font to work by typing in:
upheaval -brk-

INSTALLING FONTS
ÏÏÏÏÏÏÏÏÏÏÏÏÏÏÏÏÏ
  There's a couple of ways to install Fonts. The 'easy' way to install fonts is to just Unzip/place the font file into your Windows\Fonts directory (I always use this method). If you're unable to do it the 'easy' way, then try to do it this way (for Windows 95/98/NT):

1] Unzip the Font(s) to a folder (or somewhere, just remember where you unzipped it) on your Computer.

2] Next, click on the START button, then select SETTINGS then CONTROL PANEL.

3] When the Control Panel Window pops up, Double Click on FONTS.

4] When the FONTS window pops up, select File then Install New Font...

5] A Add Fonts window will pop up, just go to the folder that you unzipped the Font(s) to, select the Font(s) and then click on OK.
Now the Font(s) are installed.

  Now you can use the Font(s) in programs the utilize Fonts. Make sure that you install the font(s) first, then open up your apps (so the app will recognize the font).   Sometimes you'll have to wait until you computer 'auto-refreshes' for programs to recognize fonts (Windows is sometimes slow to do that). You can refresh your computer quicker by going into Windows Explorer -or- My Computer and press ALT + V, then R (or in the menubar select VIEW then REFRESH).
